Dear Mr DE SARAM

Subject Access Section 7, Data Protection Act 1998

I am writing in reply to your request for information that may be held about you on the Police National Computer (PNC).

The Data Protection Act 1998 places an obligation on the police when holding personal information on computer to provide a copy of that information to the individual concerned on request, unless an exemption applies. Exemptions are limited to information relating to the prevention of crime, the apprehension or prosecution of offenders or where disclosing such information would be prejudicial.

From the personal details supplied in your request there is no information held about you on the PNC.

This document does not constitute a Certificate of Good Character

Any information which you have requested, in addition to that held on the PNC, will be returned to you under separate cover by the originating police force.

Should you have any concerns regarding the information contained in this disclosure, please contact us in writing or by email using the contact details shown above.

Yours sincerely

Paul Brooks
Superintendent
Head of ACPO Criminal Records Office
